PROFILE

A highly motivated entry level web developer who uses his love of problem solving and puzzles to continually grow in debugging challenging problems and writing efficient, SOLID code. Looking for opportunities to learn new technologies and grow my technical skills in a team-based environment.

PROJECTS

AUG 2020 • React / React Native / CSS / JS / Express / NodeJS / MongoDB Money Manager Android App / Web App

A weekly expense budgeting calculator that displays the money left, which is stored in a MongoDB cloud along with user data. The user inputs their starting money amount, which they can adjust accordingly, reset, or subtract from their personal user account. The client side frontend is built on React, which makes API calls to the Node / Express / MongoDB backend. It uses JWT for login authentication and bcrypt for password protection.

The web app's frontend and backend are hosted on Heroku, but I have made it for the Android Play Store with React Native. The backend for the app is also on Heroku.

JULY 2020 • HTML / CSS / JS / MongoDB / Express / NodeJS / Bootstrap 4 Church Website

A mock-up of a friend's church website built with user/admin login that leads to a members' only blog page. The frontend was built with EJS and was designed with Bootstrap 4. The backend was built on NodeJS / Express / MongoDB. I created this project after I finished the Web Developer course on Udemy to hone my RESTful routing coding abilities (which is why the members' page leads to a CRUD blog page for the church).
